Comings Challenges Blaine to Debate Tax Legislation

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison—A challenge to Governor Blaine to take part in a series of debates, the subject of which would be that his program during the last legislative session was a relief measure, was made today by Lieut. Gov. George Comings, a candidate for governor, in a statement here. The debates would be on the general subject of taxation also under Comings' proposal.

Challenging Governor Blaine and A. H. Hirst are "state candidates for the governorship and that both are aligned with business interests" were made by Mr. Comings.

"I challenge Governor Blaine to debate the issue of taxation with me in a series of public meetings on dates and at places to be later agreed upon," the Comings statement said. "I challenge him to support the negative of the following:

"Resolved, that the legislature of 1923 was genuinely progressive; that in both its branches it was organized and controlled by progressives; that the failure to enact promised tax legislation was due solely and entirely to the decisive and obstructive tactics employed by Governor John A. Blaine."

"I charge that those senators who were active in helping along this tax legislation of campaign promises have been rewarded with remunerative state positions," the statement further charged.

Mr. Hirst makes no profession of progressivism in his platform. Mr. Comings said. He further declared that Governor Blaine has "dropped" on the tax question. He endorsed the La Follette platform recently promulgated at Cleveland which will be the basis for the Wisconsin senator's campaign for president.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Gillett—The coroner's inquest into the death of an unidentified man, whose body, weighted down with an improvised sack filled with sand, was found by fishermen in Sand Lake, 12 miles west of here, late Friday night, declared that the cause of death was unknown and indicated that the man met with foul play.

Coroner L. E. Stuebel said the death was not due to drowning, for he found no water in the man's lungs. He also said that the condition of the body indicated that death occurred within 10 days ago and that there were several bruises.

Sheriff P. Brandenbuhl, who is in charge of the investigation following the coroner's report, stated he is working on the theory that the man had been robbed and then strangled to death and the body sunk to hide the crime.

"Smiling, he added, 'It is the test of real Americanism. No one can claim to be an American until he has sat on a stool at a lunch counter, rested his feet on the brass rail, and munch.'

HUGE REPUBLICAN VICTORY IS SEEN BY BETTING MEN

Rio Janeiro—So far as it is known here no Americans have been killed or injured in the fighting in Sao Paulo.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Sao Paulo, Brazil—Fighting in the city of Sao Paulo, seat of the Brazilian insurrection, has been of the most desperate character during the last few days, according to two employees of an American concern who arrived here today after a perilous journey from the beleaguered metropolis.

They estimated that the dead, among troops and civilians, will reach three thousand.

The luxurious hotel Des Plaines at Sao Paulo has been turned into a hospital and is said to be crowded with the wounded.

Shells from the besieging federal forces have been falling in the city. One landed on a hotel, killing eight civilians.

Some of the federal artillery, stationed south of the suburb of Viraco, has been bombarding the city. Most of the fighting which has taken place between here and Sao Paulo is said to be between small bands of rebels and federal troops.

Refugees confirm the report that six hundred federal troops who started out last week from Santos to aid in the relief of Sao Paulo were cut to pieces by the insurgents.

Governor Do Carmo, Sao Paulo state president, is understood to be here in Santos now under federal protection. He is declared to have said that he would remain in the insurrection, but he refused to join the movement, whereupon he was permitted to leave from the city.

The rebel forces, defending Sao Paulo against the attack of the federal troops are estimated to number 3,000. This number is said to be increasing daily by recruits arriving from nearby regions. The federal force at present are estimated to number 24,000, either hand or foot. The continued federal bombardment of Sao Paulo is said to have turned the entire population overwhelmingly to the support of the leaders of the insurrection.

DOUBT FULL SLATE OF PROGRESSIVES FOR STATE OFFICE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison—Indications today were that there would be no complete progressive slate of candidates for state offices in the coming campaign. Conferences were on among candidates here in an effort to determine whether the slate could run individually or as a group.

Early reports from political leaders were that if a slate is put out, it will include Governor Blaine, Henry Huber, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Theodore Dammann, Milwaukee, candidate for secretary of state. Whether Treasurer Levitan will go on the ticket is still in doubt, it was stated by those closely connected with the plan.

Herman L. Pkern is not likely to go on the program, it was further said. Secretary of State Zimmerman will run independently.

It is probable that there would be no final decision on the proposition today also was expressed by progressive leaders.

Firestone LEADERSHIP

Firestone Leads on Speedway With Five Record Breakers

When the race driver selects his tires he does so realizing that his life and chances for success depend upon them. It is significant that all of the ten money winners in the Indianapolis race were Firestone shod. Firestone, using gum-dipping and other special processes, has developed tires to such a high degree of efficiency that at Indianapolis, May 30th, the following drivers broke the world's record for 500 miles over this brick track, making many rounds at over 100 miles per hour.

Never before were tires put to such gruelling service, where it was necessary for every ounce of rubber and every fibre of fabric to work in perfect union with every other part.

Leadership in Everyday Service

Millions of motorists are profiting by the lengthened service of Firestone tires. Scores of unsolicited testimonials, lay emphasis on the long mileage Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are delivering.

Leadership on Cabs, Buses and Trucks

The largest taxicab companies in the five largest cities in the United States use Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords exclusively. One fleet alone, the Yellow Cab Co. of Chicago, uses over one-half million tire miles per day.

AMERICA SHOULD PRODUCE ITS OWN RUBBER

Firestone for years has been first to develop tires and rims complete which would meet the heavy trucking loads, great strain and demand for traction. By originating and carrying forward the Ship by Truck movement, an establishing Ship by Truck bureaus in all large cities, Firestone helped speed up highway transportation and reduce costs.

Balloon Tire Leadership

Firestone's latest contribution to motoring is the low air pressure or Balloon Tire. This, the original full-size Balloon, was made practical by the special Firestone Gum-Dipping process, insulating every fibre of each cord, adding great strength and stamina. Firestone has also simplified the application of full-size Balloon tires to your present car by designing a special unit consisting of tires, tubes, rims and spokes applied by any dealer at a very low cost.

Leadership Against British Rubber Restriction Act

Attacking the unsound and uneconomic character of the British Rubber Restriction Act limiting the exportation of rubber from the Far East, Firestone was the one large tire manufacturer to take up the cause for the car owner. Soon after the agitation was started for America to produce rubber under its own control, the cost of crude rubber was reduced and tire prices brought back to normal.

Dealer Leadership Through Tire Quality and Service

Through Firestone dealers you can obtain organized service and the soundest values on the market, whether you need a Ford 30 x 3 1/2 Fabric, a set of full-size Balloon Gum-Dipped Cords or a 10-inch truck tire.

WITNESS TELLS OF
BUYING STOLEN CARPfeiffer, of Beloit, Testifies
Mike Strunz Was Driver of Ford.

The testimony of Harry Pfeiffer, Beloit, regarding the purchase of a stolen Ford coupe, was given today in the Circuit court, Janesville, as the driver of a Ford coupe alleged to have been stolen in Janesville late in May, was the principal testimony offered in the preliminary hearing of John William and Mike Strunz, alleged leaders of a ring of automobile thieves, in municipal court Monday morning.

Pfeiffer swore that Strunz had visited his place of business in Beloit upon several occasions and had disposed of a machine to Pfeiffer's partner, John Vinkers, also of Beloit. The price of this car, said to have been sold by Strunz, was $50.

Strunz, according to the Beloit man, visited the garage at least three or four times and attempted sales with Vinkers' residence which contained parts of his coupe. Pfeiffer denied all knowledge that the car placed in the possession of his firm were stolen and professed ignorance of additional deals between Vinkers and the Janesville pair.

E. P. King, Janesville, testified of the theft of a Ford coupe from his residence at 50 Court street May 29. He then related a future visit to Beloit, where he discovered a car which he believed to be the same as the one which had been stolen from his residence, which contained parts of his coupe. The car had been reassembled so as to avoid identification.

Further testimony was presented by Edward Quanna and Charles Kellogg, both of Janesville, from whom Ford coupes have been stolen. They each testified that machines held by either police and recovered at the Pfeiffer-Vinkers garage, contained parts of their cars.

Stanley Dunwiddie, district attorney, moved that William be given preliminary examination Monday on the three charges of theft of two cars and possession of stolen property. The motion was accepted by Judge H. L. Masfield.

William and Strunz were represented by Stanley Ryan, appointed by the court. The testimony was to be resumed Monday afternoon.

Spotlights Call for More Care
Says Motor Cop

Attention of motorists is called to proper placing of lights and to the law governing lighting of motor driven vehicles, by Merton Miller, constable and county highway motor police of Rock County.

"I would like to warn the motorists against some of the ways they have their cars lit up. Quite a few cars have a spotlight mounted on the front axle, or on the brace between the two headlights. This is entirely wrong and hereafter arrests will be made in these cases."

"The laws says spotlights may be used but they should be mounted as high on the car as possible, and the rays of light should not be over 50 feet in front of the car and should be turned at a light angle away from the center of the road to the right."

"Also, numerous cars have been running with a big spotlight on and dimmer lights on. This is entirely wrong and dangerous. The effect of this is like a car with only one headlight, because the glare of the spotlight is so strong that the dimmer lights can't be seen until you are right close to a car. The law calls for two headlights equipped with anti-glare lenses and a ray of light so an object can be plainly seen at a distance of 200 feet."

Janesville Lodge No. 55 F. & A. M. will meet in stated communication at 7:30 p. m. Monday.

"The laws says spotlights may be used but they should be mounted as high on the car as possible, and the rays of light should not be over 50 feet in front of the car and should be turned at a light angle away from the center of the road to the right."

"Also, numerous cars have been running with a big spotlight on and dimmer lights on. This is entirely wrong and dangerous. The effect of this is like a car with only one headlight, because the glare of the spotlight is so strong that the dimmer lights can't be seen until you are right close to a car. "Another Drowning."

This is the news coming every day—"another drowning." A boy leaping from a canoe to rescue a paddle. The water is 75 feet deep and the boy does not come to the surface. What was below the dark water was unknown to him. Another takes a boat under a rapidly edging and treacherous current coming from a dam. He dies because he did not know very well how to swim and to combat the swiftly running water with its backwash and undercurrent. And so it goes. Someone rocks the boat. Someone ventures into deep water at the lakes and dares of other better swimmers. Someone tries to go farther than another. Everyone should know how to swim. Water sports, bathing in the open water, swimming in lakes and streams, should be encouraged. Water has its dangers to those who do not know how to swim. Classes are formed every year in Janesville for beginners. The Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. have such classes. The beaches have watchers and instruction can be had at most of them. Where crowds gather there should be the ever-present life saver. We have far too many deaths by drowning, and watchfulness, care, attention to how and where one is going—every precaution is necessary in order that human life may be preserved and conserved.

Can you mix oil and water? It's going to be tried with Davis and Bryan. (Not Bill.)

One Milwaukee Alderman

Milwaukee aldermen have been engrossed for several days in the license question—granting licenses to soft drink saloons. Among a number of applicants have been persons who have heretofore been in sharp contact with the Severson and federal prohibition laws. Protest against renewal of licenses has been made in a number of cases by the police and the license committee has ignored the officers. A committee of women, some members of the W. C. T. U., has also joined with the police in making protest in several cases where the violation of law has been notorious. But one alderman, Mr. Lassa, has the ready wit of a 5-foot truck and the volatility of a cement house. So he answers the women in this wise:

"They are only women, anyway, and they can go jump in the lake. We are trying to do what is right and the only way the women of the W. C. T. U., or anyone else can have a say about these licenses is to sit on the committee."

Evidently Mr. Lassa may realize that he lives in Milwaukee but at the same time he has overlooked the fact that for the purpose of administering the federal laws, if for no other reason, Milwaukee is in America, where the 19th amendment is also in force. Insulting women might have been a popular indoor sport of aldermen in the days of yesterday but the weapon which women have now is the same as the men carry—the right to vote.

Presidents and Religion.

There has been so much discussion of the religious question that the church affiliations of presidents and candidates in the past are an interesting topic now. John W. Davis is a member of the Presbyterian church. Mr. Coolidge of the Congregational. But Mrs. Davis is a member of the Protestant Episcopal church and Mr. Davis attends with her at her Episcopal church in Locust Valley, on Long Island where the Davis' live. There have been 7 Presbyterians, 8 Episcopalians, 4 Unitarians, 4 Methodists, 2 members of the Dutch Reformed church, one being Roosevelt, one Baptist, one Disciples of Christ, and one, Jefferson, not a member of any church, but called a Liberal. Lincoln was united with no church but attended the New York Avenue Presbyterian church. Charles Dawes attends the Congregational church in Evanston, of which his wife is a member.

There are many interesting things about our presidents. In the biographies of the chief executives we have it stated that Andrew Jackson was a Presbyterian, but to the average man, "Old Hickory" has never conveyed the impression of having much if any affiliation with churches.

It is noted now that Candidate Davis is going to take a trip around the country making speeches and carrying the message he wants to put over to all the nation. Here too, comes a bit of interesting comparative history. James G. Blaine made a speaking tour and was defeated by Grover Cleveland who remained at home. Benj. Harrison remained at home and was elected in 1888. In 1894 Bryan made his celebrated tour and McKinley remained at Canton. Bryan was defeated. Roosevelt made a whirlwind tour and was defeated. Hughes did the same and went by the board. Cox swept across and around the country and was buried under 7 million majority, while Harding remained on his old front porch. Mr. Coolidge is going to remain at home and let the speech-making out to some one else.

Mr. McAdoo's mind is a regular trapeze performing mentality.

What the citizens of this section are wondering in politics is how a man can get into the republican primary without being a republican. He can take on himself the cloak of a party name

INFANT PSYCHOLOGY

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Washington.—At chance a study babies with some of the thoroughness with which animals and plants are studied in the hope of Dr. John B. Watson, well known psychologist. He says that psychology is the most backward of sciences. Farm experts use tested methods for raising first class pigs and bumper crops. But with all the talk about psychology, neither mothers nor child experts know very much to date about a technique for rearing superior, or even normal, children.

It seems inevitable that happy-go-lucky, trial and error methods of child training will produce poorer types of adults as life tends to become more exacting. Nervous individuals and failures and misfits in life are all too common in every community. Scientists have proved that the difficulties of these complex adult individuals can most often be traced back to an origin in the simple mechanism of the child infant. And now comes Dr. Watson, a pioneer in the study of infant psychology, to tell us that if a sufficient number of children are studied day after day, almost unceasingly, and if their behavior is carefully recorded and interpreted, the mysterious laws back of the development of a human being may be learned.

The doctor has already made numerous experiments with the behavior and emotions of babies in a Baltimore hospital. He would like some day to conduct a long experiment, taking about 20 babies soon after birth and keeping them in a scientific institution where trained psychologists and a competent staff would study them until they were 16 years old. But this is an ambitious and expensive project. As a mere feasible program he suggests a study of about 20 children all over one year old for a period of about two years.

If a scientific foundation or some other institution should provide the funds for this two year piece of research it would be carried out along the following line:

The babies would be cared for at a building equipped like any other institution for children, and the doctor sensibly suggests that the chief experimenter should be a married woman, preferably one with children of her own. The subjects of the experiment would be mainly small children who present behavior problems such as extreme shyness or an unreasonable amount of fear or contrariness. The doctor and his assistants would provide as nearly as possible a normal, well ordered background for their charges. Each child would learn to deal with other children and with older people, and each time a behavior problem came up the scientists could study it and experiment with ways of helping the child to meet his difficulties.

The children for such an experiment would probably be obtained from parents who have difficulty in keeping up normal homes and who would be willing to lend their babies to the scientists for care and experimental training. One part of the plan is to pass on to the parents what the experimenters learn about methods of rearing children. There would be lectures for mothers and, if possible, conferences with the parents of each child, so that when the child returned to its home the progress made at the institution might not be undone. There would be no rule against parents seeing their children, but the institution would want to keep each baby under constant observation as long as that baby was the subject of research.

The experiments would be interesting. They would deal quite largely with emotions, especially fear and anger which are mainly responsible for the wrecking and distortion of character. These emotions appear and develop in tiny babies. Of the two, fear is the more insidious. Dr. Watson has found from observation that only three situations frighten a small infant. One is the sensation of falling; the second, is a loud noise; and the third is the feeling of the blanket being jerked when the baby is falling asleep. By the time the child is two or three years old, however, it is generally afraid of many more things. Objects that would be regarded with indifference by an infant may arouse terror in a child of this age.

The frightening factor, so far as the psychologists can analyze it, is the necessity for quick adjustment to a strange and unforeseen situation. If a child of two years is shown a toy frog, and he has never seen anything of the sort, he is apt to draw back. Curiosity should then lead the baby to approach the frog, and the fear would ordinarily die out. But if, before this happens, some one pulls a string and makes the toy frog jump at the child, the unexpected attack is sure to startle him further, and he may persist in being afraid of the frog.

A simple experience like this may be forgotten by the child, but if the fear aroused was deep enough it can persist and spread by association to a great number of similar objects. Dr. Watson traced the growth of a fear in one small child's experience, but before he could carry the experiment on to the next step of trying to remove the fear, the child left the hospital.

Mrs. Mary Cover Jones, associate in psychological research at Columbia university, succeeded in removing a deeply implanted fear in a normal child three years old. This child, Sidney, had some fear of rabbits. By a series of experiments, the fear spread to a few white rats, a fur rug with a stuffed head, frogs, feathers and even to a wad of cotton. The fear probably developed in one brief, terrifying encounter with a rabbit or something resembling one, but it took months of patient maneuvering to change the child's attitude.

Mrs. Jones' aim each day was to get the rabbit as near as possible to Sidney without causing him to cry. By slow degrees, he permitted the animal in his cage to be nearer to his high chair. Then he allowed it to run around the room. He saw other children fearfully hold the rabbit, and that encouraged him. The final victory occurred when Sidney held the rabbit in his arms, and when he expressed fondness for it because he learned that it had brought him a basket of Easter eggs.

At this stage, tests showed that Sidney's fear of cotton, fur coats, and feather had disappeared. He was still wary of frogs, white rats, and the fur rug with the stuffed head, but not terrorized by them.

Dr. Watson, who watched the progress of the experiment, finally thought it time to test Sidney with unfamiliar moving creatures. A mouse and a tangle mass of angleworms were brought in. At first the child showed slight distress, but in a comparatively few minutes he was carrying the angleworms around and watching the mouse with calm interest.

The tedious rabbit experiment thus resulted in removing allied fears, and the report says: "We also appear to have increased his tolerance and decreased his resistance to strange animals and unfamiliar situations."

Without having one single thought in harmony with the party principles.

Uncle George Comings wants a joint debate with Gov. Blaine. What Uncle George wants to tell Mr. Blaine is that the governor is no progressive and that he has turned tail on all the party precepts.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE LARGE FAMILY.
Brothers and sisters and cousins and aunts, uncles and grandfathers, too. Children of this one and children of that, all of the blood of your—
This is the family—yours and mine—and big—
Oh, the pleasures come fast when the family's large, and so do the cares and woes!

When the family's small you may run the years with seldom a touch of grief when the fold away from the wolf or thief; But with many to love and with many to guard there are some that will go astray. And over and over your tears shall fall when the ship-head calls one away.

They bring you their joys with their smiling eyes; they lavish their love on you; When the family's large you have much to miss who miss you, but one of two, But you must be sure to be the circle's rim for many a blow shall fall.

For as often come joys to the larger throng, so often shall sorrow call. There is always a care when the family's large, there is always a pressing need. For the strength you have and the faith you hold, and often your heart will bleed, But this is the price you must pay for all the love that has come to you— You must not grieve, for you'll suffer more than the smaller families do.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

CAN YOU MAKE THE GRADE?
Pneumonia kills in other ways than by causing the heart to fail, and the failure of the heart, so many cases are entirely a mechanical matter for the poison or toxin of the pneumococcus injures the heart muscle in any case. But if you have given your heart full training you have chances of winning the battle with pneumonia will be correspondingly better. So it pays to keep fit. It is a sin to grow flabby, a kind of slow suicide. It is hard to keep fit if you are a slave of idleness. You just naturally prefer to "relax," or maybe you feel too weary to indulge in the daily use of exercise when your day's work is over with. It is unpleasant medicine most of the time, yet indispensable if you mean to keep fairly fit. Yet every adult must have a certain amount of exercise daily in order to accumulate a savings account for a rainy day, a fund of reserve power to draw on in time of need. Will you make the grade or do you spend as you go?

Let's assume your present health is so, so, fair average health as health is popularly estimated. You could probably get through an examination for life insurance—your heart, lungs, stomach, etc.—but you have no other spoken disease about you. A health inventory or examination would list you as a 70 per center. Seventy is the minimum passing mark—but nothing to boast about or brag on. Just the health. You're in no man's land, and the only certain thing is that you've got to go somewhere. On the one hand your habits, your association, your mode of life, your friends and associates are striving to bring you down and will get you sooner or later if you just stand there where you are. On the other hand, you can drag yourself out of no man's land, out of the 70 per center class, to a higher and safer position, nearer to what is called the 100 per center class. The 100 per center class is a very comfortable one. In it, if you can make the grade.

A 90 per center aged 50 years should be able to run a mile. You can do it. You don't know until you try. It requires a fairly efficient heart, a reasonably well trained brain, that pumps the blood through the lungs when a 90 per center meets such a demand, or that fails to pump the blood through the lungs when a 70 per center finds himself winded early in the race.

You could probably get through an examination for life insurance—your heart, lungs, stomach, etc.—but you have no other spoken disease about you. A health inventory or examination would list you as a 70 per center. Seventy is the minimum passing mark—but nothing to boast about or brag on. Just the health. You're in no man's land, and the only certain thing is that you've got to go somewhere. On the one hand your habits, your association, your mode of life, your friends and associates are striving to bring you down and will get you sooner or later if you just stand there where you are. On the other hand, you can drag yourself out of no man's land, out of the 70 per center class, to a higher and safer position, nearer to what is called the 100 per center class. The 100 per center class is a very comfortable one. In it, if you can make the grade.

Let's assume your present health is so, so, fair average health as health is popularly estimated.
